

Please, please, please, please don't let people use cell phones on planes. Even the emergency argument doesn't "fly" here, since even if there is some emergency, the person couldn't do anything about it from 30,000 feet. What would actually happen is that the self-absorbed would acquire yet another venue in which to inflict their thoughts, opinions and affairs on everyone else in the vicinity.